

Do you know of a person seeking asylum in Leeds area who has been detained unfairly and lost access to support?

We may be able to help.

AJAR (Asylum Justice And Release) seeks to support asylum seekers who . . . have been detained unfairly are struggling with support would live in the Leeds area if they were released

AJAR is a network of people in Leeds, often from faith communities, seeking justice for people in this situation. Our network includes voluntary befrienders, bailers and advisors. If standing bail is required, we work to provide a team of three people to support that person in the complex and traumatic journey of trying to get leave to remain in this country.

If you know anyone who might be interested in our support please contact us on:
